LOCAL NEWS.

A Chinese opium convict was brought to prison from Hawaii by the Kilauea Hou.

Mr. Fred Wundenberg, who has been Deputy Postmaster for several months, has been appointed Postmaster-General.

A youngster was detected going out of Mr. Frank Gertz's store on Saturday evening, with a pair of shoes that were not bought.

The subject at the Seventh Day Adventist meeting this evening will be "The Millennium." All are cordially invited to attend.

About forty head of cattle from Hon. S. Parker's ranch, Hawaii, arrived Saturday night by the Kilauea Hou and were landed at the cattle pens.

The Kapiolani Bath House was crowded all day Sunday with bathers, who were only too glad to escape from the oppressive heat and enjoy a plunge in the briny.

Four for drunkenness, one for breaking the express rules, one for preventing justice, two for opium in possession and one for gambling were slated at the Station last night.

The steamer Kinau departs on the Windward and Volcano route this afternoon at four o'clock, and the steamers Likelike and Mokolii on their respective routes at five o'clock.

Three ladies with three children were taken by the Kilauea Hou, on her last trip, from Hamakua to Hilo, to take passage at the latter place for San Francisco by the schooner Emma Claudina.

Ah Bong and Ah Yang were arrested last night at a poi shop above the Reformatory School, Palama, by officers Harry Crabbe and B. Starkapu, for having opium in possession. About ten o'clock $500 was deposited at the Station as bail for one of them.

Following are the newly-elected officers of the Hawaiian Rowing and Yachting Association: President, His Majesty the King; Vice Presidents, Chas. B. Wilson and His Excellency Governor Laukae; Secretary, Mr. W. M. Giffard.

The Attorney-General and Marshal, on being asked who was to succeed him as Marshal, replied with the question, "What do you want a new Marshal for?" The questioner gave it up, as he did not want a new Marshal, if the Attorney-General thought he could do without one.

A native sailor on the Kilauea Hou had one of his forefingers nearly taken off at one of the landings on Hawaii. While mooring a boat to a buoy he had the finger nipped between the two. The digit was left hanging by a shred, and the man was taken on shore, where Dr. Campbell dressed the injured member. The sufferer was taken back to Honolulu on the steamer.

Hotel Arrivals.

The following are the arrivals at the Hawaiian Hotel Saturday and Sunday: R. D. Walbridge, Walluku; Major Cornwall, Maui; C. N. Arnold, Hilo; A. C. Butchard and wife, Hamakua; Miss Rathbone, Hamakua; E. A. Burdard, Kohala; R. W. Putnam and wife, Waiehu, Maui; M. Richter and wife, Koloa; Z. S. Spalding, Kauai; Chas. W. Clink, Greenock; R. A. Macfie, Jr., Kilauea; H. B. Saylor, Pottsville, Penn.; R. Halstead and wife, Waialua.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown celebrated their golden wedding on Friday last. Among many compliments tendered on the occasion was an engrossed address of congratulation from the Minister of the Interior and other officials of the Department. Mr. Brown, who is Registrar of Conveyances, is 84 years old, his wife being nine years younger. Hon. Cecil Brown and his three brothers, with the wife of Rev. Alex. Mackintosh, are the survivors of a family of seven born to the venerable couple.

An Unseemly Disturbance.

An abusive wrangle took place on Saturday evening, at the corner of Fort and Hotel streets, between a leibedecked native and a hackman. The native eventually pulled out a whistle and blew long and loud for police. An officer heard the alarm while engaged in quelling a disturbance in the rear of the Empire Saloon, and left that work to investigate the cause of the alarm, arriving on the scene when it was all over. The hackman had been accusing the native blood of having mislaid him scurrilously and assaulted him in his carriage. The native belonged to the retinue of a great military chief, who was at the time refreshing his valor in a neighboring saloon.

BIRTHDAY OF THE PRINCESS.

Festivities at Waikiki—Reception and Luau—List of Presents.

Saturday last was the eleventh birthday of Her Royal Highness, the Princess Victoria Kaiulani. The anniversary was celebrated in grand style at the Waikiki residence of the little Princess's parents, H. R. H. Princess Likelike and Hon. A. S. Cleghorn. There were a reception and a luau, attended by many distinguished people from both public and private life. Among those present were His Majesty the King and his staff, Princess Liliuokalani and Poomaikalani, Governor Laukae and General Dominis; Hon. W. M. Gibson, Minister of Foreign Affairs; J. S. Walker, President of the Legislative Assembly, S. G. Wilder, J. E. Bush, G. W. Macfarlane, Junius Kaa and S. Parker of the House of Nobles; several members of the House of Representatives, Mr. R. J. Creighton and Mr. J. T. Dare, late Ministers, and most of the resident representatives of foreign nations.

Princess Likelike received the guests, who cordially presented themselves to tender their congratulations to her royal child, being assisted by Princess Liliuokalani and Poomaikalani, Miss Gardiner, governess to the little princess, and Miss Brickwood.

After the reception the large company were invited to a grand luau in the native style. The feast was spread on long, low tables in a large permanent lanai used as a banquet hall, or assembly room, as well as a library, well-filled bookcases being ranged along the wall. About two hundred people sat down to the tables, on mats in the old style, and scores had to wait for a second service along with late arrivals. It was a sight worthy of art reproduction, the numerous company of natives, mingled with people of almost all nationalities, disposed about the festive boards. The royal standard adorned the head of the hall, and the walls were thickly studded with works of art and other decorations. An unlimited abundance of flesh, fish and vegetables, cooked by the incomparable native method, together with choice wines and varied dessert, literally heaped the tables. There was a table set with foreign cookery and utensils at one end of the room, but most of the guests preferred to go back for the notice to the fashion of the Garden of Eden, before chairs were contrived or knives and forks and spoons invented.

After the first table had been fairly taxed of its food and drink, the company was called to order.

His Majesty proposed the health of the young Princess Kaiulani and her mother Princess Likelike. He hoped the company would join him in the toast. He was proud to propose and drink the health of the little princess, she being the representative of the present royal line of descent. He hoped she would receive a liberal education and training, to fit herself for the high position which she would be called upon at some future time to hold. She was the hope of the nation, and he felt much interest in her welfare, and the nation felt with him, as she being the only offspring of the family her welfare was a matter of solicitude to all. He would also ask the people to drink to the health of the mother, H. R. H. Princess Likelike. He was proud of this opportunity of honoring his sister, she having been the only fruitful one in the family. He hoped she would be the mother, not only of Kaiulani, but of many others, as she would be the mother of future kings.

Hon. S. G. Wilder being called upon to respond on behalf of the young princess and her mother, delivered a brief but very feeling speech.

Hon. A. S. Cleghorn proposed the health of His Majesty the King. Also of the Legislative Assembly, thanking them for the liberal appropriations made for his wife and daughter. In reply to Mr. Wilder, he said that, so much being dependent upon the young princess, nothing would be left undone to bring her up properly; but as she was not strong they did not think it wise to send her abroad for an education.

Below is a list of presents given the princess on this occasion:

The King gave $50 in gold and two large kahilis, of kala feathers, the staffs about twelve feet long of kauwila wood.

Princess Likelike, two kahilis made by herself of peacock feathers.

Aged native women, royal retainers, a fine mat of Niihau grass and a hair necklace.

Princess Poomaikalani, a Savings Bank passbook with $50.

The Liliuokalani Educational Society, $1 from each member.

The Cabinet, a gift of money in gold.

Agnes Creighton, a beautiful jewel case of silver shaped like a parlor grand piano.

Walter and Lizzie Hayselden, a ring set with diamonds and precious stones.

Dr. Trousseau, a gold bangle.

Paul and Ned Neumann, a gold bangle.

Maggie Bendel, a kukui brooch.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Levey, a silver jewel casket.

J. M. Monsarrat, Whittier's Poems.

Mrs. G. O. Nakayama, two dress patterns and crape.

Mrs. Taro Ando, embroidered frame and paper cutters.

Mrs. J. D. Strong, painting of a scene on the demesne.
Col. Boyd, a violin.
Major Lumabehei, a hair lariat.
Captain Tripp, a handsome bride.
Liliu Carter, a lace handkerchief.
Mrs. Herbert, an aloha brooch.
C. R. Barnfield, painting of a banyan tree on the premises by himself.
Mr. Holdsworth, guitar-shaped gold breastpin.
Mrs. McAllister, art needlework handkerchiefs.

J. S. Webb, "Story of Ruth," on toned cardboard, elegantly bound and illustrated.

Bishop and Mrs. Willis, "Parables of Our Lord," a beautiful volume.
S. W. Heydtmann, "Little People of the Snow," of a fancy edition.

Some donor, whose name was not discovered when our reporter left, sent an elegant, heavy silver water set.

Others contributed to the friendly store kahilis, gold coin, birthday cards, etc.

L. Montgomery Mather gave an album of ferns, besides conveying his congratulations in the following original poem. The verses are engrossed in antique characters on an illuminated board:

TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS PRINCESS KAIULANI.

Dear little Princess, joy to thee this day
That adds another year to thy young life,
Now bursting fresh as tender buds in May,
To bloom, we pray, a stranger unto strife.

All that is sweet in life's springtime he thine,
Lose not an hour of youthful days too few;
Their happy memories will in future shine,
And bring to serious age a brighter hue.

Thus may thy course of life go gently on,
As each year by its beauties shall disclose,
And when the blush of summer time has gone,
Remaining years be full of sweet repose.

L. MONTGOMERY MATHER.

Prof. Berger was present throughout the festivities, directing the Royal Hawaiian Band, that was stationed under the banyan tree painted, as mentioned above, by an artist. The boys did not allow their beautiful new uniforms to prevent them playing with as much skill and vim as ever before.

The Divers Return.

Messrs. William Terrill and Alexander Lyle returned Saturday night by the Kilauea Hou, from their submarine expedition. They failed in the search for the piece of machinery—part of a steam pump—lost from the steamer Lehua at Paauhau. The buoy anchored there to mark the spot had disappeared. The men tried to find the right place by bearings furnished them, searching the bottom at every part showing a depth of thirteen and a half fathoms, and sometimes getting into a depth of fifteen fathoms, but all to no avail. Besides the water being very rough, the bottom was exceedingly rocky and hard to explore.

At Maalaea Bay, Maui, they succeeded in recovering a 2,800 lb. anchor and chain, which had been lost from the steamer Kinau. The find was made in eight fathoms of water, several hundred feet from the spot indicated to the divers.

A land shark was encountered by the two men at Laupahoehoe, Hawaii, in the shape of a Chinese restaurateur, who charged them one dollar each for a meal. This must be one of the fellows Mr. Nahins had in his mind's eye, when he brought in his bill to regulate the strength of coffee.

Pacific Hose Company's Drill.

The members of Pacific Hose Company No. 1, to the number of twenty, assembled at their headquarters on Saturday evening at 7:30, in pursuance to orders from their new foreman, Mr. M. D. Monsarrat. They proceeded from there with their cart to opposite the Hon. C. R. Bishop's residence on Emma street, where two streams were turned on from the hydrant, and the members were given a thorough drilling in coupling and uncoupling, lengthening hose, etc. After the drill Mr. B. Ordenstein, one of the members of the company, invited the boys into his residence to partake of refreshments. On returning to the hose house the steward had a substantial lunch ready through the kindness of the new foreman. Ample justice having been done to this, the remainder of the evening was spent in speeches and recitations, every one departing with the conviction that Pacific Hose Company No. 1 is second to none in Honolulu, from the foreman down to the hose washer.

Flying Dutchman.

This is the name given by sailors to a phantom ship, supposed to cruise in storms off the Cape of Good Hope. According to tradition, a Dutch captain, bound home from India, met a long continued head wind at the Cape of Good Hope, and refused to put back to sea, swearing that he would beat around the cape, should it take until the Day of Judgment. He was taken at his word. The ship is believed to have become white and the sails threadbare with age. The captain cannot leave to or lower a boat, but sometimes speaks to passing vessels through his speaking trumpet, requesting them to take letters home for him.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Daily's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."

"As a true tonic, effective invigorator and genuine appetizer, Duffy's Malt Whisky is unequalled."

THE LATE ISRAEL FISHER.

Coroner's Inquest—Letter and Notes of the Deceased—Morphine and the Poison.

An inquest into the death of the late Israel Fisher, was held by Coroner David Dayton, Deputy Marshal, on Saturday afternoon. The following were the jury: Henry J. Hart, C. Vibrans, Geo. Engelhardt, Henry F. Devoli, John Magoon, James Welsh. Only two or three witnesses were examined and the following verdict was rendered: "That Israel Fisher came to his death the 14th day of October, 1886, by taking some unknown poison from some source obtained unknown to us outside of the dispensary of the Branch Hospital, as extra precaution had been taken by the Sisters and medical attendant to guard against any such casualty."

Dr. Trousseau believed throughout that opium was the poison used, but, as it would cost $200 to make the necessary post mortem and analytical examination, that matter was allowed to rest on opinion as being of only secondary importance.

Fisher had told Mr. Dayton of two unsuccessful attempts to take his own life, saying that he would yet succeed, when he would leave an explanation. Among his papers has been found a description of the first attempt, giving details of symptoms from hour to hour after taking the dose. This may be of value to medical men.

The deceased, according to his word, left the following explanation:

"BRANCH HOSPITAL, Sept 1, 1886.

"In order that there may be no misapprehension in regard to this cause that I have taken I will explain. In latter part of last October, 1885, W. M. Gibson, President of Board of Health, etc., came to my house with the kind tidings that he would put me, J. Fisher, under Dr. M. Goto's treatment for the leprosy, for which I thanked him very kindly and promised to adhere strictly to the doctor's direction. I at that time weighed about 130 lbs. I now at this writing September 1st, 1886, weigh 160 pounds, have made splendid progress in these ten months and upwards under the doctor's treatment. Through some slight misunderstanding between us, through a small surgical operation performed on me preparatory to my discharge from this Leper Hospital, it appears that he took a slight offense at some remarks that I had made in regard to putting me in pretty good shape for my departure, as he the doctor deserved for what he had done for me and others. As I had often remarked to Dr. Goto, that as for my life I did not consider it worth living for, after having been discharged from a leprosy hospital. People naturally would shun me through fear that I merely went through this ordeal for him, as he deserved great credit. For what he had done for me and others here, he certainly has done wonders at this Branch Hospital. Things are quite the reverse from what a writer in Tuesday's Gazette represents things here. If it would not be too much trouble for the writer to call in here and judge for himself. It appears that Dr. Goto had made the remark about myself, that persons that spoke about such things, as it being immaterial whether they lived or not, was all bosh. I merely wish to show the doctor that what I have said to him at any time was truth, which I pride myself in."

"I remarked to the doctor about eight or nine days ago, the last time I spoke to him until to-day, that if he did not finish the operation that he commenced upon me, that I would not leave the hospital and go before the world, and that I wished he would finish the operation. Upon the foregoing conversation the doctor did not come near me for eight or nine days. Hence I wish to bring my word true."

"In acknowledgment of my kind treatment here, I must say that the Sisters and W. M. Gibson have been very kind to me here."

"To whom it may concern, most respectfully,

"ISRAEL FISHER."

The foregoing letter was contained in an envelope, superscribed as follows: "Explanation—To whom it may concern—As near as I can remember— I. F."

In Fisher's note book the following entries occur:

"In Morphine pamphlet, page 24, large doses the highest 72 grains per day. How is this for high?"

"September 1, 1886. Taken dose No. 2. My acknowledgment is due the Sisters at Kakaako, also Mr. Gibson, for kind treatment. My acknowledgments are also due Walter Hill and Robert Grieve for newspaper favors. My mind has been much disturbed within the last two weeks. 7 p. m."

Then come reflections on different persons which, of course, cannot be published. The entries continue:

"September 2, 1886. It is singular that in making the attempt the second time, that it should fizzle out the second time. I don't see how I could stand so much nonsense, but it appears that I do, but there must be an end to this as there is an end to all things."

"September 1, 1886, at 7 o'clock p. m. Second attempt at the short cut through this world. 2nd. Strength of dose too light. I am much disappointed after making such preparation. I. F."

"Saturday, September 25, 1886. Received three powders, size of morphine 8th."

From the last note above it would appear that the doctor's opinion as to the poison was the correct one, although the wording is not very intelligible. The reason the second dose was too light was that another patient, knowing Fisher's suicidal intentions, had got at the supply of the drug and removed three-fourths of it.

The misunderstanding with Dr. Goto arose in the following way. Fisher's ears were enlarged from leprosy, and the doctor had reduced the size of one by a surgical operation, but believed that the other would shrink by a natural process to the normal size.

The patient presumed to differ with the physician, or at all events had not patience to wait for nature. There were, however, matters connected with the management of his property, which, his notes show, contributed as much as anything else to put him in the morbid state resulting in suicide.

An Unpardonable Error.

Two ladies called at the office of a Milwaukee newspaper the other morning and asked for the proprietor. Both appeared greatly grieved and indignant. One was in tears.

"What is the trouble?" inquired the business manager.

"Why, I told your reporter yesterday that I had lost my dear little spaniel, Gyp," answered the tearful one, "and he put the item in this morning under the head of 'Matters of Minor Importance In and About Town.' I want to stop my paper, if you please."—St. Paul Globe.
